Vumii and PROSYS Form Exclusive Partnership

ATLANTA - September 3, 2008 - Vumii, a developer of highly engineered yet easy to use long-range, day/night surveillance camera systems, today announced it has entered into a formal distribution partnership with PROSYS Inc., a South Korean distributor of integrated security and surveillance system solutions. PROSYS has a 20 year history of serving high technology and government markets.

PROSYS will sell Vumii's line of Discoverii day/night camera systems as part of a complete security solution for government and commercial applications. Vumii's camera systems are designed for unsurpassed image clarity and magnification capabilities for perimeter and border surveillance applications and are ideal for monitoring remote and long distance locales such as, borders, seaports, airports, military bases, energy infrastructure, and large industrial facilities.

"As we look to provide the best security solutions to our customers, it is critical that we have a unique, proven long-range night-vision solution as part of our complete offering," said Sung Hoon Kim, Vice President, PROSYS. "No other technology can deliver the night vision capabilities we witnessed with Discoverii."

Vumii's innovative long-range surveillance camera system platform and software represent a revolution in night vision capabilities, offering unique natural contrast video and continuous zoom, high magnification optics in zero light and daytime, situational awareness camera control and image enhancement software at affordable prices. Discoverii technology provides unprecedented target recognition and identification beyond 3,000 meters in complete darkness. Vumii products are deployed by commercial and government entities for perimeter and border protection around the world.

"PROSYS is an impressive, dynamic company with a clear vision for delivering integrated security and surveillance solutions," said Vumii CEO Randall Foster. "This collaboration will give PROSYS customers access to one of the industry's most unique night vision surveillance solutions and we look forward to working closely with PROSYS as it works to serve an expanding number of customers in this fast-growing market."
